Representations

1. Representations must either be drawings or photographs (except instant photos) affixed to good quality A4 size paper.
2. 7 identical sets of representations of the industrial design are required. 1 set must be attached to form part of the application form.
3. Only 1 side of the paper should be used. Each sheet should show the total number of sheets in the set, for example, 1/3, 2/3 or sheet 1 of 3, sheet 2 of 3, etc.
4. The drawings or photographs should only show the designed article. No other objects should be shown and the representations should not show any corrections.
5. Representations should be labelled and should include at least 1 perspective view. Representations should show all details of the article and should be capable of being reproduced clearly. Representations must be rectangular and each side should not be less than 30mm.
6. Representations should not contain other unnecessary descriptive wording such as measurements, disclaimers, etc.
7. Where an industrial design is to be applied to a set of articles, the representations should show the industrial design as applied to each different article included in the set.
8. For multiple applications, representations should be sorted into 7 identical sets and each labeled M001, M002, etc.
9. If the applicant wants protection for a particular part of an article only, that part of the article in which novelty is claimed must be clearly identified, for example by colouring, circling or drawing the part in solid lines.

Drawings

10. Drawings should not be more than 160mm by 160mm (half A4 size). The lines of drawings must be even and boldly drawn and should not show hidden details.

Photographs

The photographs should show the article against a plain neutral background without shadows or reflections and should be firmly affixed to the backing sheets using double-sided adhesive tape.

Statement of Novelty

12. A statement of novelty is a statement which highlights the novel features of an industrial design. The statement of novelty must be printed on the front of the top sheet of each set of representation. A statement of novelty is not required for industrial designs intended to be applied to a textile article, wallpaper or similar wall covering, lace or sets of textile article or lace. The statement of novelty can be expressed in the following way:

"The features of the industrial design for which novelty is claimed are the shape* and configuration* of the article as shown in the representations*

(* "pattern", ornamentation", as appropriate)

13. The statement of novelty must not include any description of the use of the article or its features, advantages or method of construction. Where novelty is claimed for a particular part of an article, the statement of novelty can be expressed as follows:
